How AI Works

From Sorcery to Science

by Ronald T. Kneusel

Errata updated to print 2

Page	Error	Correction	Print corrected
14	 Figure 1-5: The decision tree for I. virginica versus I. versicolor	 Figure 1-5: The decision tree for I. virginica versus I. versicolor	Print 2
16	In other words, the model returned a label of 9 for 917 of the 982 fours, a label of 1 for 48 fours, and labels of 1 or 3 for the rest.	In other words, the model returned a label of 9 for 917 of the 982 fours, a label of 0 for 48 fours, and labels of 1 or 3 for the rest.	Print 2
48	This calculation time grows as the square of the number of samples in the training set.	This calculation time grows linearly with the number of samples in the training set.	Print 2
48	Double the size of the training set, and the search time increases by a factor of four.	Double the size of the training set, and the search time increases by a factor of two.	Pending
65	 Figure 4-3: The two-neuron model trained on the wine dataset	 Figure 4-3: The two-neuron model trained on the wine dataset	Print 2